Charles-Town, July 1, 1771.

LONDON, MAY 9.

Concluſion of the proceedings in the HOUSE of COMMONS, on MONDAY the 6th inſtant.

TO the arguments of Mr. Wedderburne, given in our laſt paper, Mr. Seymour replied, and ſaid, That he underſtood that the committee was under the particular direction of Mr. Wedderburne, becauſe that Hon. Member had engaged to produce evidence before them ſufficient to bring the affair of ſuſpicion home to ſome proof upon ſome one individual; and had ſaid, there was ground enough to lay a charge; that when the report came down, he would undertake to make this charge; he did not mean againſt any of the magiſtrates, but he would point out the perſon on whom he ſhould make the charge. Mr. Seymour obſerved, That government were themſelves the chief cauſe of all theſe diſturbances; that it was true, there was a tongue that made a great noiſe, and a great ſplay hand held up without a nerve to move it, much like the bloody hand that is ſeen as a ſign at a breeches-maker's ſhop, quite ſenſeleſs and nerveleſs. He ſaid, he himſelf was reſolved never to act with any ſet of men without an aſſurance that the meaſures of the Middleſex election ſhould be repealed, whatever this learned member might do, as to that proceeding the diſcontents of the people were owing.

Mr. Wedderburne replied, and ſaid, If the Hon. Gentleman was reſolved never to act with any ſet of gentlemen in Adminiſtration till a repeal of that meaſure, he could aſſure him it would be very long before the world would reap the benefit of his abilities; that as to the office which he had accepted of under government, he enjoyed as little emoluments from it as any man whatever; that, if he could diſcharge his duty properly, he was the ſervant of the public, and not of the Miniſter. He ſaid, that when he and the Hon. Member had ſometimes acted together upon conſtitutional principles; that he hoped his office carried with it no tie but to follow his duty to the public.

Mr. Seymour made ſome reply, and ſaid, He did not pretend to arraign the learned gentleman's conduct; he did what he thought beſt for himſelf and his own advantage; but does any man believe, that if his friend Mr. Grenville had been alive, he would have dared to have forſaken thoſe principles under which he had been brought into the Houſe? And can any man ſuppoſe, that Mr. Grenville would have approved of the preſent proceedings of the Hon. Member, or of the Adminiſtration? There are at preſent two ſets of men in the cabinet differing with each other, and a third ſet waiting for that ſide which may ſucceed, in order to throw the balance on which ſide was ſure to be moſt powerful, ond moſt likely to be uppermoſt.

Mr. Townſend ſaid, That it had been declared in a court of high authority, that mobs were hired, and that porter-houſes were opened on that occaſion. Well might, after ſuch a declaration, a committee of enquiry be appointed! He now was convinced, that uniformity and ſteadineſs were two vices which the Adminiſtration avoided. He blamed government for paying ſo little attention towards the diſcovery of thoſe men who were concerned in the cruel murder of Clark at Bethnal-Green; and ſaid, that in their firſt advertiſement they had inſerted nothing but falſe circumſtances about the manner of his death. He concluded, that government troubled themſelves very little about that enquiry.

Mr. Burrel ſaid a few words to prove, that though Mr. Francis, Solicitor to the Treaſury, had appeared at the Committee, by order of one of the members (meaning Mr. Wedderburne:) yet did not appear there as a Solicitor to the committee, and that the paper which he produced was laid upon the table, open to all the members. An obſervation that occaſioned this laſſion had before fell from Mr. Seymour.

Mr. Baker ſaid, That, according to his apprehenſion, the Hon. Member, (meaning Mr. Wedderburne) had mentioned a magiſtrate of the city of London, from whom he could have ſufficient evidence. That the utmoſt that was proved at the committee was, that there was a riot, and that it appeared to be arranged and diſciplined. That the report ought to be brought, to ſhew that the committee had not yet found out the cauſe of riots.

Sir George Saville ſpoke next, and raiſed the qualities of Mr. Wedderburne up to a high pitch within his reach, in order to pull them down again, which he did in a moſt maſterly manner, and left not one feather for Mr. Wedderburne to plume himſelf upon. He firſt painted him in his gaudy array, and then expoſed his external features to the delineating rays of the ſun to paint and deſcribe the inward man.

Sir George ſaid, That what was ſpoke by the learned gentleman intended to prove the neceſſity of bringing up the report—[Mr. Wedderburne ſuppriſed the Houſe by getting up and ſaying, That he was for bringing the report up]—that he conceived he did not underſtand him, but that he was againſt its being brought; that the learned gentleman was on a different ſide of the Houſe from him; that perhaps he might ſee things as people do in perſpective; that the learned gentleman ſeeing things in a quite different light, put him in mind of Julian II. who, when he was made Pope, altered his manner and carriage to the world very much. Being aſked how he came to change his ways and opinions, he anſwered, "That now he was two ſteps higher than he was before, and could ſee further, and things appeared to him in a different light from what they did to other people." Sir George proceeded, That it was uſual for people to ſay, that gentlemen coming from the North always came up in a hurry, and when they quitted their own country, travelled pretty far South; but the learned gentleman had ſtopped half way in Yorkſhire, and was married there, in fact, to a lady of that country, and had wedded himſelf to the principles of Yorkſhire, in oppoſition to an abandoned Adminiſtration: That ſince then he, indeed, had completed his Southern tour, and got a place under government, and acted in oppoſition to thoſe meaſures he had before defended—(it may here be obſerved, that he acted a part while he was with Oppoſition, and that now he acts upon principle, and that from Sawney he became Alexander, and from Alexander he is now Sawney again)—that he beſt felt what he had got; the Houſe well knew what he had loſt; that Yorkſhire was ſuppoſed to withſtand the attack of the enemies of this conſtitution, by uniting to oppoſe Adminiſtration; that the learned gentleman had wedded himſelf to thoſe principles; that he was now divorced, and had married the offending party.

Mr. Wedderburne replied, That he did not expect to be told that he had made a bad bargain for himſelf: That he knew what he had loſt, if he had forſaken that connection which promotes riots, and gives a ſanction to thoſe who have diſobeyed the orders of the Houſe. [Here he ſhould have recollected, that all his promiſes to bring proof of the ſource of theſe riots before the committee of inquiry fell to the ground, and were not amplified.] He ſaid again, that there would be very few caſes in which this Houſe will be adviſed to the meaſure of expulſion any more.

Mr. Burke ſpoke next, and with his uſual power of oratory continued the debate ſome time longer. He ſaid, That whatever diſpoſes men to diſapprove the acts of government, diſpoſes them to think ill of them. The Houſe muſt have done ſomething wrong, or the parties ſomething criminal. The latter was not true; the former he could not doubt was the caſe. The certainty of impregnating in the minds of the people a bad opinion of this aſſembly, by acting contrary to their intereſt, is of more fatal conſequence than the chance of ſtirring up a riot from a lawful petition to the Throne, or from a remonſtrance. It is better to run the riſk of diſorders for a time, than have a ſettled precedent of aſſinating the conſtitution. He lamented the loſs of his coadjutor in ſupport of the cauſe in which they had both been embarked. [Here Mr. Burke, in the opinion of his friends, raiſed his late coadjutor to an undeſerved pinnacle of merit, and forgot to bring him down to a more equal poize to his deſerts.]

He ſaid, if the Middleſex election had ſtood upon arguments, and not upon numbers, it would have yielded, and the deciſion would have been contrary. With regard to the committee, he obſerved, that ſuſpicion ought to lead to enquiry, and that enquiry into proof; but this committee was begun upon ſuſpicion, and is ended with ſuſpicion.

Lord John Cavendiſh, who always ſpeaks with temper and good ſenſe, ſaid, that it was but a natural cauſe, when any people are diſcontent, to become tumultuous: That he looked upon theſe riots to be accidental: That ſincerity of principle, and conſiſtency of conduct (alluding to Mr. Wedderburne, we ſuppoſe) was the only way to bring things about again to be pacific.

Charles Turner ſaid ſome few words, and blamed Mr. Wedderburne for forſaking his former oppoſition to miniſterial meaſures, they now continued in a great degree the ſame as they were then.

Lord North ſpoke next, and was not long. He ſaid, That he acted upon the true principle with Parliament in the Middleſex election: That the want of reverence to Parliament was owing to the petitions for a diſſolution, and to the dangerous and violent remonſtrances laſt year, and by riots this year: But he hoped gentlemen would be aware of bringing petitions and remonſtrances to the Throne, if they occaſioned theſe diſturbances. I will, he continued, do juſtice to thoſe who ſet them on, that they meant to do more than they did. He ſaid, that if any injury had been offered to the people, that that Aſſembly would redreſs it: that if there were parties differing in the Council, he was not in the ſecret; and that the adminiſtration, ſuch as it was, was likely to continue, and that they would act upon the ſame principles they had done.

Mr. Dempſter ſaid, there were once a mob at Brentford, in which government was concerned, and that murder had been committed there, and no murder in any of theſe riots.

The debate then cloſed, and the report was ordered to come down on Wedneſday.

LONDON, JUNE 1.

FRANCE has at length effected the great ſtroke of politics ſhe has been long aiming at. The government is become bankrupt, and the whole ſcore of ſtate debts is rubbed out. All penſions, all annuities, are ſunk. All theſe important reſolutions have actually paſſed the grand council; and the public declaration of them is expected by the firſt poſt.

Lord Bute is to live in a private, retired manner at his ſeat in Bedfordſhire. It is ſaid he is to pay a viſit to Scotland; and to go from thence, at the approach of winter, to ſome warmer climes.

On Tueſday Lord Grantham ſet out to embark for his embaſſy at the court of Spain; his Lordſhip is to go by the way of Paris, where he will make ſome ſtay.

JUNE 3.

The aſſiduous Earl of Suffolk has been indefatigable for ſome weeks paſt, in his viſits and meſſages to Lord Halifax, both at Buſhey and in London, expecting, with the eagerneſs of a ſchool-boy, every day to hear of a vacancy by death or reſignation, which he longs to ſucceed to, having a certain promiſe of it.

JUNE 4.

This being the anniverſary of his Majeſty's birth-day, who enters into the 34th year of age, the ſame was obſerved at court with the uſual ſplendor. In the morning the bells rung, at noon the Tower and Park guns were fired, and evening will conclude with illuminations, which promiſe to be uncommonly grand. His Majeſty received the compliments of the nobility and foreign miniſters at St. James's, and at night there will be a ball.

The Miniſtry has been for a long time paſt continually fluctuating and wavering, without coming to any determinate criſis in reſpect to the ſo much talked of changes: The point at which they now ſtand is as follows:

The Lord Lieutenantcy of Ireland was ſeveral times offered to Lord Weymouth, and always refuſed. Lord Hillſborough was next applied to, who made his own terms, and conſented. With his Lordſhip, therefore, it ſtands at preſent; but every thing about St. James's is ſo deſultory and unſettled, that it is a thouſand to one if we do not in our next announce a new Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, Lord Hillſborough having changed his mind.

The Earl of Suffolk has been promiſed to ſucceed Lord Hillſborough in the important department of the Colonies. This young man (who is indeed a young man) was ſo teazing to the Premier, that he was obliged to throw him this cruſt to cloſe his mouth. But this, it is thought, will ſoon be altered.

Lord Townſend is ſuppoſed to be deſtined for the head of the Ordnance, to relieve the gentle Conway, who now bears all the trouble without all the profit.

JUNE 6.

Yeſterday morning, about five o'clock, the Queen was taken in labour, and a quarter before ſix was ſafely delivered of a Prince. Her Majeſty and the young Prince are as well as can be expected. On this occaſion the flags were diſplayed, and the bells were ſet a ringing, in order to announce the happy event.

Her Majeſty was very well on Tueſday evening, and ſupped with the King that night.

Her Majeſty's delivery was ſo ſudden, that there was not time to procure any of the great officers of ſtate uſually preſent on ſuch occaſion. Dr. Hunter and ſome German ladies only were preſent.

The following intelligence is authentic, and comes from the beſt authority:

The beginning of laſt month, there arrived at the court of Madrid no fewer than ten expreſſes, from Verſailles, in one day.

The King was ſent for from his palace about twenty miles from Madrid, and the Grand Council continued ſitting all day.

The next morning a report was current through Madrid, that his Catholic Majeſty gave orders for fifteen thouſand infantry, and four thouſand horſe, to prepare themſelves for ſetting out for France with the utmoſt expedition, to prevent a revolution in that kingdom.

We ſince hear, that the ſaid troops are now getting ready for the above purpoſe.

Several of the principal law officers were not at court on Tueſday; Lord Mansfield, Lord Chief Juſtice De Grey, nor the Solicitor-General, were preſent.

JUNE 7.

The number of Minority Noblemen and Gentlemen that honoured St. James's with their preſence on Tueſday, ſurpaſſed that of any other birth-day for theſe ſeven years.

Within theſe few days the Lord Chancellor, it is ſaid, has paid very frequent viſits to Lord Camden, both in town and at his ſeat in Kent; the latter Nobleman has alſo had ſeveral conferences with his Majeſty lately; from whence various conjectures ariſe.

JUNE 8.

It is certain Lord Hillſborough is pitched upon to go to Ireland. His Lordſhip has actually ſpoken to ſome perſons to attend him to that kingdom.

We have been favoured with the following authentic intelligence by a perſon juſt arrived from Paris:—Paris now repreſents a ſcene of the utmoſt deſolation; the Baſtile being crammed ſo full of unfortunate people, and the exceſſive heat of the weather, has cauſed the goal diſtemper to rage to ſuch a ſhocking degree, that fifty or ſixty of the priſoners die in a day. This diſtemper is of ſo contagious a nature, that it has communicated itſelf into different parts of the city, which cauſes the poorer ſort of people to die like ſheep. The King is deaf to all this diſtreſs which he has occaſioned, indulging himſelf with the company of Madame Barré, going a hunting, &c. but it is the opinion of every thinking man there, that a ſpeedy revolution cannot fail to take place, as it is daily expected to hear of the King's aſſaſſination; hardly any of the nobility now go to court, and none of the Princes of the blood.

They write from Rochford, that there has been an inſurrection of the women in the Iſle of Rhé, occaſioned by an augmentation of 80 ſols for every head of cattle; and that they murdered an officer, who came there from Rochelle, to fix up notice of this tax.

We are informed from ſeveral parts of France, that the Tribunals lately eſtabliſhed under the name of ſuperior Councils, remain inactive, almoſt every place refuſing to acknowledge their juriſdiction.

The laſt advices from Paris ſay, that the French King is afraid to enter that city; he ſpends his time entirely between Verſailles and Marli, and permits his Chancellor to perform all public buſineſs. Not a night paſſes but treaſonable papers are found paſted up in the public ſquares, notwithſtanding the vigilance of the police. On the 28th ult. a paper was ſtuck upon one of the gates of the church of Notre Dame, which concluded with theſe words,—"Oh! for another Ravillac!"

Forty two Counſellors of the Chatelet were ſerved with Lettres de Cachet, exiling them to different places, and ordering them to leave Paris in twenty four hours time, on the 27th of laſt month.

JUNE 11.

The late Lord Halifax's blue ribbon is given to his Royal Highneſs the Biſhop of Oſnaburgh.

Prince Henry is to have the Biſhop's red ribbon.

The inſtallation is fixed for Monday the 29th of July next.

On Sunday night, at twelve, died, at his houſe in Tenderden ſtreet, Hanover-ſquare, the Hon. Dr. Richard Trevor, Biſhop of Durham.

The levees of the ſeveral great perſons in power at the weſt end of the town have been more than uſually crowded for ſome days paſt. The premier has had a greater number of compliments paid to him ſince the end of the laſt month, than he experienced through the whole laſt ſeſſion of Parliament.

From the number of offices already vacant, at the weſt end of the town, and the expected change in ſeveral departments of the ſtate, hopes are formed by ſeveral hungry gentlemen who are out of place.——There will be great ſcrambling for preferments in the courſe of this week; and the buſineſs is expected to be carried on with more zeal and ſpirit, as the ſcramblers conſiſt not only of temporal, but ſpiritual men alſo.

Letters from Stockholm mention his Swediſh Majeſty's having arrived in that capital on the 25th of laſt month in perfect health.

JUNE 12.

Notwithſtanding the changes in the great offices of State, which the death of the Earl of Halifax may occaſion, we can aſſure the public that it is ſtill fixed for Lord Hillſborough to go to Ireland.

JUNE 13.

The Duke of Grafton's appointment to the privy ſeal would have been declared, as it was actually made, on Monday laſt, but Lord North found means to retard it. The truth is, this appointment, as well as another that is expected to be made known before the end of the week, were both made againſt his Lordſhip's inclinations; and even after it was made, he uſed his utmoſt intereſt to have it revoked: but in vain.

A Committee is to be appointed this week for conducting the buſineſs of Mr. Wilkes in his election for the office of Sheriff in conjunction with Mr. Bull.

There are expected to be ſix Candidates for the Shrievalty, and four perſons to take the poll for each.

JUNE 14.

Yeſterday the Right Hon. the Earl of Suffolk kiſſed his Majeſty's hand at St. James's, on being appointed Secretary of State for the Northern department, in the room of the late Earl of Halifax.

The King of Denmark has regulated all the courts of juſtice in his dominions on the ſame plan as that adopted by his Pruſſian Majeſty.

The late Lord Halifax, by his will has deviſed his Northamptonſhire eſtates to his grandſon, ſon of Lord Hinchinbroke, together with the furniture and valuable pictures, as Heir-looms: To Mrs. Donaldſon, his Spitalfields eſtate for life, with the reverſion to Sir George Oſborne, his nephew: To Miſs Montague his Suſſex eſtate, and at her death the reverſion to Sir George Oſborne; and his Northern eſtates are directed to be ſold for the diſcharge of his debts.

In an evening paper of Yeſterday we find the three following Paragraphs:

The late Biſhop of Durham having left the bulk of his fortune to his brother, Lord Trevor, that noble Lord is ſatisfied; and has declined the Chancellorſhip of the Dutchy court of Lancaſter in favour of his friend, Lord Hyde. Indeed it is not material which has it; the miniſtry had them both without any thing, and they will either lie ſeparate, or both in a bed, juſt as commanded.—The Poſt-Office was lately the object of this Par nobile.

Lord Suffolk has at length obtained the office of Secretary of State, in the room of the late Lord Halifax. His friend, Mr. Whateley, is to be his Secretary. It is much doubted whether maſter or man can ſpeak a ſentence of French. When Lord Rochford was removed to the Southern department, upon the reſignation of Lord Weymouth, Lord Suffolk declined the office of Secretary of State, (in the room of Lord Rochford) becauſe he was not qualified: How comes he qualified for that very department now? Mr. Whateley ſeems conſcious of their inability to hold their employments, and therefore he has ſecured to himſelf Mr. Finch's ſinecure place, of ſurveyor of the roads, &c. And Mr. Bamber Gaſcoigne is to be a Lord of trade, in the room of Mr. Whateley.

Lord Weymouth repeatedly ſolicited the office of Privy Seal, in the room of Lord Suffolk; but as the Biſhopric of Durham was given to the Bedford Faction, it was ſaid, "they ought to be ſatisfied with that;" therefore Lord Bute called forth his oſtenſible deputy, the Duke of Grafton, and prevailed upon the King to appoint him privy ſeal.—Lord North, who had taken the helm when the Duke of Grafton, in the moſt cowardly manner, deſerted it, ſeemed diſſatisfied with the idea of his Grace's coming into an office, which gave him a place in the cabinet; but he was aſſured, that his brother is to be the new Biſhop, and it was hoped that would quiet him. But leſt it ſhould not, or to prevent his being refractory, the King has given him Buſhy Park for himſelf; to which is annexed a ſalary of 600l. per annum. And Lord Suffolk, &c. (friends of the late Mr. Grenville) who had oppoſed the Duke of Grafton's adminiſtration, ſet up a ridiculous pretence to conſiſtency, by affecting to diſapprove of the plan of introducing his Grace into a Cabinet Office; but upon giving Lord Suffolk the poſt of ſecretary of ſtate, and amply providing beſides for Mr. Whateley, they were ſatisfied.—Thus Lord Bute has ſettled his arrangements for the preſent.

It is certain, that the Biſhop of Litchfield goes to Durham, and Dr. Brownlow North, Dean of Canterbury, to Litchfield. This laſt promotion was violently oppoſed by Lord Sandwich and the reſt of the Council, as there is no precedent of any perſon's being advanced to ſo high a ſee as Litchfield, without firſt having been in ſome of the inferior ſees. His age was likewiſe urged as another reaſon againſt his appointment; and alſo that Lord North would have an opportunity upon the next vacancy of providing for his brother. Lord North anſwered in theſe words, "Such is the fluctuating State of a miniſter in this country, that I may never have another opportunity of advancing my brother to the bench, and I am determined to do it when I have the power."

It is the general opinion, that the Right Hon. Braſs Croſby, Eſq; will be re-elected to ſerve the office of Lord Mayor for the year enſuing.

John Kirkman and Richard Oliver, Eſqrs. are put up in oppoſition to Meſſrs. Wilkes and Bull; and the friends of all parties are making intereſt to ſecure votes.

By public Outcry, at the VENDUE-HOUSE in CHARLES-TOWN, on TUESDAY the 5th of SEPTEMBER next, at 12 o'Clock.

A TRACT on ACCABEE, one of the most beautifully situated Country Seats in this Province, not more than seven Miles from Charles-Town by Land, and about the same Distance by Water.—The Whole contains four Hundred Acres, three Hundred of which are in Oak and Pine Wood, the Rest in Pasture under Fence.—The Dwelling-House on it is of Brick, with a large Hall and Parlour on the Ground Floor, and a Passage and Stairs in an Entry between both; there are four Bed-Chambers above them, exclusive of the Garret which has two unfinished Rooms.—The Cellar is very convenient for a Kitchen, being built and used for that Purpose.—On the South Front of the House is a new Piazza, which overlooks an unimproved Garden quite down to the delightful River on which the Whole is situated.—Opposite to the House and Garden, the River is computed to be upwards of a Mile wide, and abounds with a Variety of Fish, Oysters, &c.—As there is Plenty of Wood, Bricks may be made to Advantage, and the Number now at the Landing will be a sufficient Recommendation of the Quality of the Clay, &c.—Vast Quantities of Lime may likewise be burnt, the Shell-Banks being very contiguous to the Landings, and the Wood not far to cart.

A TRACT at STONO, St. Paul's Parish, butting and bounding, Eastward and Southward on Lands belonging to the Estate of the late ROBERT MACKEWN, Esq; and Lands of JAMES STANYARNE, Esq; Westward and Northward on Lands of Mr. ISAAC NICHOLS, deceased; and Mr. ALGERNOON WILSON.

This Tract contains four Hundred Acres, and is principally adapted for the Culture of Indico, Corn, &c. the Soil being loose and fertile, it will also answer for most European Grain; about Seventy Acres has been cleared, and a tolerable Plantation House on it, but being rented out to several Tenants, Shoemakers, &c. it has been much abused, and at present is out of Repair. It is well timbered with Oak and Pine, and its Distance from the public Landing at Friend-Town, scarce exceeds two Miles.

Another TRACT at STONO, about a Mile nearer the Public Landing than the above, containing by a Re-survey three Hundred and Seventy-five Acres, butting and bounding North-Eastwardly on Land belonging to WILLIAM ELLIOTT, Esq. (called Winners) North-Westwardly on Land belonging to the Estate of ROBERT MACKEWN, Esq; South-Eastwardly on Lands belonging to FREDERICK GRIMKE, Esq; and South-Westwardly on Lands belonging to CHARLES ELLIOTT, Esq. This is a very compact Tract, fit for Indico, Corn and Rice: A great Part of this small Tract is in Wood of Oak, Hickory, and Pine, and affords good Cooper Stuff for any of the adjacent Rice Plantations. On it is a pretty good Dwelling-House, now rented to Mr. JOSEPH DANDRIDGE.

A long Credit will be given, if desired, paying Interest from the Delivery of the TITLES.

BARNARD ELLIOTT.

By THOMAS POWELL,
At Mr. TIMOTHY's Printing-Office in Broad-Street,

Dr. KEYSER's famous PILLS.

BEING the mildeſt, ſafeſt, and moſt efficacious ANTI-VENEREAL Remedy ever yet diſcovered, from the ſlighteſt Infection to the moſt extreme and deplorable Degree of the Venereal Diſeaſe, even when the Blood and Juices are contaminated with its malignant Virus, and the very Bones are affected by it; and prevents the Infection from taking Place, if a few Pills are taken in Time.

Freſh Infections, with all their attendant Symptoms, though ever ſo ſevere, are intirely carried off in a very ſhort Time, and ſo effectually as to prevent the Blood and Juices from being tainted with any remaining Relicks:—And the moſt inveterate Degree of the French Illneſs, attended with nocturnal Pains, conſtant Breakings out, and all other exaſperated Symptoms, are ſoon conquered by theſe Pills, and the Diſeaſe more effectually eradicated than it generally is by the Patient undergoing a Salivation, or any other Method whatever, and that too in ſo eaſy and ſafe a Manner (without impairing the Strength, or occaſioning any Inconvenience or Confinement) as may juſtly beſpeak them the beſt Venereal Antidote this Day in the World.

Thoſe, who from fatal Experience, find that they have entruſted their Conſtitutions into unſkillful Hands, may, by taking theſe Pills, be again reſtored to Health and Vigour; for they admit of no Foulneſs, Corruption, or Putrefaction whatever, to remain in the Fluids, or to adhere to the Solids, and on that Account have always proved very ſerviceable in all Scorbutic and Scrophulous Eruptions and Sores about the Body, &c.—They are alſo a certain and ſafe Cure for all Seminal-Weaknelſes, which prove ſo deſtructive to the Conſtitution, and ruinous to the unhappy Individuals labouring under them, by impoveriſhing the Blood, and draining away the Radical Moiſture, or every Eſſence of Life: The bad Conſequences of which are not more fatal to themſelves than it would be to their Offspring (ſhould they have any) who would have Diſeaſes and Complaints entailed on them from their firſt coming into the World, and be obliged to drag a Life of Miſery and Pain, owing to the Irregularities and Miſ-Conduct of their Parents.—In ſhort, Dr. KEYSER's PILLS have proved ſo very efficacious in all the different Stages of the French Illneſs, that (were they univerſally known, and properly taken) there is not the leaſt Doubt of their totally exturpating the Venereal Diſeaſe from the Face of the Earth.

The happy Effects of the above Pills have often been experienced in Rheumatic and Gouty Caſes, White Swellings, Aſthmas, Suppreſſions of Urine, Palſies, Hyſteric Diſorders, and the Green Sickneſs.—They will prevent an Apoplexy, Lethargy, Vertigo, Giddineſs or Swimming in the Head, Falling Sickneſs, &c. if a Box of them are taken Spring and Fall.—They are truly a Specific, and never fail curing a Fluor Albus, or that particular Weakneſs to which Females are ſo ſubject. They are ſo gentle in their Operation, that they may be taken at any Time, and even given to Children that have Worms.

Experience, which is the moſt Baſis Knowledge can be founded on, has proved, and will further juſtify, the Virtues here attributed to the above Pills, and, I preſume, will be deemed a ſufficient Reaſon for endeavouring to make known the Merits of this valuable Medicine in this Colony, eſpecially, as I can aſſure the Public, with the ſtricteſt Truth, that it has already reſtored Health and Vigour to ſome Thouſands of People in different Parts of Europe, from its firſt Diſcovery to this Time, which is not above Ten Years.

As Proofs of the Excellency of this Medicine, I have thought it neceſſary to mention the following Facts, which redound greatly to the Honour of the Inventor of it.——His Majeſty hearing of Dr. KEYSER's PILLS, and the conſtant Succeſs which attended them, ordered the moſt rigid and niceſt Examinations to be made by Twenty-ſeven eminent Phyſicians and Surgeons, upon Perſon that were juſt cured, and on others who had been cured above two Years.—When, to the eternal Honour of Dr. KEYSER, there was not found a ſingle Inſtance of Failure. Immediately after which Tranſaction, an Hoſpital was eſtabliſhed, where theſe Pills are now adminiſtered in all Venereal Complaints; and from whence not leſs than ſeven Thouſand Patients have in a ſhort Time been perfectly cured, and diſmiſſed. His Majeſty, in Reward to ſuch important Services to Mankind, hath ſettled a Penſion of ſeven Hundred and Fifty Pounds per Annum on Dr. KEYSER: Who has likewiſe received Teſtimonies of Cures performed by his Pills, from moſt of the principal Phyſicians and Surgeons in Europe, who make Uſe of no other Anti-Venereal Remedy in their private Practice; and the learned Faculty at Montpelier in France, having given ſuch great Encomiums of the ſuperior Virtues of this Medicine, that it has been uſed with the greateſt Succeſs in all the Military Hoſpitals in that Kingdom.

This grand Reſtorative of the Human Frame, is, by the Author's Appointment, ſold by T. POWELL only, at SIX DOLLARS a Box, each containing about One Hundred and Ten Pills, with full Directions for taking them, and enabling the Patient to judge of his own Diſeaſe.——One Box, unleſs in an inveterate Complaint, is generally ſufficient to perfect a Cure.

N. B. The Vender of the above Pills, is ſo confident (from ſeveral authenticated Teſtimonies, and the Aſſurances he has received from the Proprietor) of their proving efficacious in every Stage of the Venereal Diſeaſe, that he hereby promiſes to return the Money if a complete Cure is not performed, provided the Patient adheres to the Manner of taken them, as is given in the printed Directions.
